

Introducing the BDS's four Arkwright Scholars

The BDS is proud to be providing financial support to four Arkwright Scholars whilst they study for their A-levels. These students have an interest in the built environment and environmental engineering and were chosen following a rigorous selection process conducted by the Arkwright Scholarships Trust – an independent charity that identifies, inspires and nurtures future leaders in engineering.

Andrew Pepper with Robert Edminston, Hywel Bleasdale, Nedas Pratusis and William Holden

The scholars formally received their awards at the Arkwright Scholarships Trust's 25th Anniversary Awards Ceremony held in London at the end of October. BDS committee member Andrew Pepper was fortunate enough to attend the event and meet the students face-to-face. The event was a great success and the BDS is now developing a mentoring initiative to provide further support to the scholars. Further information will follow for those interested in finding out more about the mentoring scheme.